Now that the hunting season is fast approaching, there is considerable worry as to just what season holds for the various kinds of game. The Arizona game laws do not conform with those of the Federal government in some respects and, consequently, the Federal laws take precedence. The open season for male deer and turkey is from October 1 to December 15; for quail, snipe and rail, October 15 to February 1; for ducks, geese and brandt, October 15 to January 31; doves and white wings (but not wild pigeons), June 1 to February 1; trout, June 1 to September 1; none under seven inches and limit of catch 20 pounds per day or not over forty fish. There is no open season on antelope, elk, goat, mountain sheep, female deer, fawn, road runner, bob white, grouse, song birds and pheasants.
